Sub: Approval of the project proposal submitted by ISWAR SANKALPA for sanction of fund for Innovative & Special Projects (I&SP), a component under NULM for generating activities among the mentally ill women.

This is to convey for your kind information that KMC authorities have been pleased to approve the project submitted by ISWAR SANKALPA in principle and recommended for its implementation in as much as it would generate activities among the mentally ill women, deprived of normal life.

As it aims at adding a fresh lease of life to those homeless women with psychosocial disabilities, it will undoubtedly set a new tone to their lives to be self reliant and make a landmark for the uniqueness of this project, if required fund is provided with.

This has the concurrence of Hon'ble Mayor dated 24.11.2017.

PROJECT NAME:

DIFFERENT MINDS-A Social Enterprise Endeavour of Iswar Sankalpa based on a Baking and Cooking Training Unit for Homeless Women with Psychosocial Disabilities

PROJECT OBJECTIVE:

The project is aimed at training the homeless women with psychosocial disabilities in hospitality and catering through professional baking and cooking training. The training will be designed to help the women gain the confidence and cooking skills to enable them to come off benefits to take up jobs elsewhere. This will enable the women to gain self-sufficiency and become independent. These women, who have lost their homes, families, and friends and even in some cases their own names, will get a fresh lease of life – a second chance.

PROJECT LOCATION:

Sarbari Shelter, 19B, Chetla Hat Road, Kolkata 700027, Ward 74

PROJECT DURATION:

1 Year

PROJECT CONSENT OF STATE GOVERNMENT/ULB:

State Government, West Bengal

PROJECT BACKGROUND:

The combination of homelessness and mental illness is a global phenomenon, occurring in rich and poor countries alike.

The census of India in 2011 reports that there are 1.77 million homeless persons across India – defined as ‘houseless population’, i.e. those who don’t live in ‘structures with a roof’. The urban homeless population is estimated to be 9.38 lakhs. However, the National Advisory Council (NAC) reports that these figures are likely to be underestimated given that this is a highly invisible population – both for the society and the government. Due to the lack of any government issued identifying markers, this invisibility becomes further compounded leading to ultimate neglect.

Various factors lead to and contribute to this continuing homelessness – structural factors like affordable housing, inadequate income supports and individual factors which increase vulnerability – one of them being mental illness which works in conjunction with other non-conductive elements which renders a person homeless. Being a homeless person means being open to discrimination, and marginalization, in addition to having no access to any government services, ultimately being bereft of a life with dignity.

The conditions for women who are homeless and suffering from mental illness – it is a double marginalization. During psychotic episodes, they wander away from home, sometimes for long distances, get abused, undergo all levels of human rights violation and sometimes wind up in homeless shelters. They then are returned to their families before undergoing sufficient psychosocial rehabilitation to deal with their illness. Consequently, they suffer mental illness relapses and wind up homeless again. The safety net which had gaps in the realm of family and community due to which the women becomes homeless in the first instance, seldom gets a chance to be repaired due to ignorance, poverty and stigma. Thus the only way forward is to enable women to break the viscous cycle of mental illness, homelessness, poverty. The economic independence and employability of women is the fulcrum on which depends the ultimate gateway to a life of dignity.

TARGET BENEFICIARIES:

32 women will be trained, 8 women per quarter.

PROJECT STRATEGY:

The project will be implemented through the following steps:

Preparation and Planning: A business development framework with all start-ups, will be developed under the leadership of a professional resource person having expertise in business management in food and hospitality industries. This will include doing market research, local community surveys, interviews, competitor analysis and a branding workshop. The results will help shape the service (types of food to serve, menu and pricing preferences etc.).

Identification of training space and equipment: The organization will keep aside a dedicated space for the baking and cooking unit training, and purchase equipment to ensure a seamless and continuous training process

Identification of trainer: The organization will hire an external person to train the residents on a regular basis to ensure industry standards of quality and hygiene

Identification of trainees: 8 residents will be trained every quarter, 32 women in total in the year

The trainees would also be trained in soft skills, hygiene, communication and money matters to ensure a holistic training for working in the food industry.

Post Training: Some of the trained women will be taken in as staff to work in the training venture café of Iswar Sankalpa. The organization will also develop tie-ups with other cafes in the food industry to assist in placement of these women post completion of training.

PROJECT SITUATIONAL ANALYSIS:

IswarSankalpa works with the urban homeless and slum-based population with psychosocial disability. Currently the reintegration unit of the organization works out of the two shelters catering to 80 women and 30 men. At the shelter, the residents are encouraged to be engaged in daily chores like cooking and cleaning to develop life skills as well as employment skills as domestic help. These women come from various challenging situations including mental health problems, domestic violence, economic deprivation, poor education, social isolation, poor language skills, low self-esteem, etc. As a result, merely working at the shelter is not enough experience to sustain themselves in employment. Formal training and practical experience are needed to turn them into a productive and skilled workforce. It is important to invest in this training, as only via employable skills can the women hope for a future, a life where they are no longer shunned, and discarded.

PROJECT OUTCOME:

- The participants in the training will be earning stipend during training
- The participants in the training will receive salary post placement.
- The women who will get trained in bakery will sell their products at sales outlets in the city, take orders for home delivery and take part in exhibitions, fairs thus earning while even in training
- The new skills learnt in baking will give them further opportunity to expand skills development on the job in the food industry, thus opening doorways into hereto inaccessible job territories
- The practical experience of being engaged in livelihood generation work, along with learning social skills of engaging with people and financial skills of money management, will simultaneously prepare them to live in the community – after years of being isolated and abandoned.
- They will be able to use this new found independence to save money and think of a different future by means of group or independent living.
- This renewed investment into their own lives, will give the women the confidence to give a shot to second chance in life – the practice of work and earning will inculcate in them the importance of productivity thereby creating more workforce in the state
- Their new identity will reduce stigma and enhance quality of life.

PARTNER AGENCIES:

Side by Side Vzw. India, OAK Foundation

PROJECT MODALITIES:

The raw materials, and cooking and baking machines, etc would be given by Iswar Sankalpa. The training sessions will be conducted in the existing women shelter space in 19B Chetla Hat Road. The training experts will be recruited by Iswar Sankalpa. Even in case of marketing of the food products and networking with other cafes and employment options, Iswar Sankalpa will play a pivotal role. It will require government support partly in the equipments, raw material and trainer cost.

PROJECT MONITORING AND EVALUATION:

- Regular training schedules would be designed in participation with the women.
- A thorough need assessment of the market would be done to understand the market.
- Each individual's progress will be mapped and documented as per standardized scales
- There will an individual file maintained for all the interventions done for the persons
- There will be reports post completion of each module of training.
- Quality check of the finished food will be done regularly
- Annual Reports will submitted with pictures, narrative reports and financial audited reports.

ORGANIZATIONAL PROFILE:

IswarSankalpa is a registered not for profit organisation, founded in 2007 by mental health professionals, and works in the field of mental health within the city of Kolkata. It extends professional psychiatric and counselling services, guidance, and rehabilitation support to economically underprivileged individuals afflicted with different mental health challenges - in particular, the homeless people and slum population with psychosocial disabilities.

Individuals with mental illness, especially the homeless comprise a population which remains largely invisible to the society and are vulnerable to innumerable injustices. Without having a place to voice out their issues, these people remain largely out of any government intervention. Awareness on mental health issues is also low, and government facilities are limited to tertiary care in hospitals, which leads to people in the slums not having accessibility to mental health services. The World Health Organisation (WHO) states that disability due to mental illnesses is increasingly leading to poor quality of life and affecting the overall growth of the individual, hence increasing burden on the state and society.

It is in this context that IswarSankalpa has set-up a multi-pronged approach system in the city of Kolkata to address mental health needs of the vulnerable sections in the city. IswarSankalpa's vision is to ensure the dignity and holistic well-being of such individuals and enable them to attain their rights. It aims to do so in a humane manner. It works with a vast network comprising of the Kolkata Police, the Social Welfare Department of the Government of West Bengal, the Kolkata Municipal Corporation, along with Community based Organizations (CBOs), educational institutes, the medical fraternity and the community in the city. This has enabled Iswar Sankalpa to work through a multi-model approach, raise awareness on mental health issues, and mobilise resources effectively to be able to provide intervention and care for the homeless and home-based slum population in the city of Kolkata.

Iswar Sankalpa focuses on providing overall resettlement and rehabilitation opportunities for homeless and slum-based psychosocially disabled persons in an effort to help them get back their identity as productive members of the society.

This is achieved through supervised pharmacotherapy and counselling, as well as, facilitated participation of the clients in select, occupational and vocational activities, all of which ultimately aim in restoring the client's self-confidence, self-reliance and independent living. Iswar Sankalpa works on the premise that change needs to occur in a sustainable way, hence all of its programs are based on community based care and support strategies.

IswarSankalpa allows for individual choices in forms of living and treatment, and adapts its support according to individual preferences and needs.

Currently we have seven functional programs –

- Our flagship outreach program, Project NayaDaur, 2007 onwards: This is a city-wide community-based programme catering towards the homeless population with psycho-social disabilities and mental health needs; till date we have reached out to over 1300 individuals, and created 88 caregivers from the community itself.
- Sarbari Women's Shelter for the Urban Homeless, 2010 onwards: A night and day shelter-cum rehabilitation centre for urban homeless women suffering from mental illness in Chetla, a joint venture with the Kolkata Municipal Corporation; till date 440 women have accessed the shelter services
- Project Arogya, 2010 onwards: An emergency response unit which works with the Kolkata Police in providing immediate help and treatment to emergency street-based cases;
- Dr. K. L Narayanan Rehabilitation Centre, 2009 onwards: A drop-in, day-care centre (DIC) for the care and therapy of the homeless persons with psycho-social disabilities within Hastings Police Station;
- Resettlement Unit, 2010 onwards: This focuses on reintegration of persons back into the society by restoring back home, or engaging persons in vocational program and job training so as to inculcate sustainable living and vocational skills thus enabling independent living opportunities; 307 persons have been restored back to their homes.
- The Urban Mental Health Program, 2012 onwards: A Kolkata Municipal Corporation partnered ward health unit based mental health services delivery programme for individuals from the BPL population; till date over 2400 individuals have been provided mental health services in two wards (78 and 82) of the city where the project is implemented. Since 2017, work has also started in ward 11.

- Marudyan Men's Shelter for the Urban Homeless, 2015 onwards: An open shelter for homeless men with psychosocial disabilities, with a capacity of 30 in partnership with the Kolkata Municipal Corporation; till date about 103 men have accessed the shelter facilities
